Dr. B. Sailaja is the Head of the Department and Assistant Professor in Zoology at Dr. Lankapalli Bullayya College, Visakhapatnam. She holds an M.Sc., M.Phil. and Ph.D. in Zoology from Andhra University. Her doctoral research focussed on the taxonomy and community structure of Monogenoidean parasites of clupeoid fishes from the Visakhapatnam coast. Qualified in APSET for Life Sciences, Dr. Sailaja is also a life member of the Indian Society for Parasitology and serves as a peer reviewer for the Journal of Parasitic Diseases. She has made notable contributions to marine parasitology and zoology through her research and academic engagements.

Over her career, Dr. Sailaja has actively participated in six national and international conferences, presenting both oral and poster sessions, and has attended 12 workshops and training programs, including advanced sessions in molecular biology and bioinformatics. With an impressive record of 10 peer-reviewed publications, she has enriched the field of parasitology with her findings.

Dr. Sailaja actively organizes and conducts field trips and add-on programs to enhance practical learning for students. Her role was instrumental in several student-driven projects, including a notable project on Spirulina cultivation. These initiatives not only give students hands-on research experience but also foster an understanding of sustainable practices in biology. Her leadership in the department continues to inspire students, guiding them through research and creating a dynamic learning environment.
