Dr. Janet Paul is an English teacher with experience in teaching, communication, and student development across various educational levels. She currently serves as an Assistant Professor at Dr. Lankapalli Bullayya PG College, Visakhapatnam. Her previous roles include a lecturer in the Skill Development Centre at the same institution and a Teaching Assistant in the Department of Geology at Andhra University.

Dr. Janet Paul holds a Ph.D. where her research centred on Reading Comprehension Strategies to students through an intervention study, and an M.Phil. with a specialization in African American Literature from Andhra University. She also holds multiple postgraduate degrees in English, Linguistics, and Psychology, and a B.Ed. in Special English. She has strengthened her academic credentials with certifications such as the PGDTE and PGCTE from EFLU Hyderabad, specialized diplomas in English Language and Management of Voluntary Organisations, and a Yoga Certification from the Institute for Yoga and Consciousness.

Her dedication to professional growth is demonstrated by her participation in various workshops, seminars and faculty development programmes. She has also contributed to the academic community through her publications on reading comprehension, strategies for improving students' fluency, and the role of women in Indian English fiction. Her professional development includes completion of programmes focused on digital teaching, language assessment, and EFL/ESL teaching techniques. She is actively involved in educational events, having judged the AP Zonal Level Declamation Competition in 2023 and coordinated the International School Award by the British Council. Her commitment to education is demonstrated through her APSET (2016) and CTET (2015) qualifications.
